

Photo Gallery - D. A. Agius

- 1 A jālibūt (characterized by its upright stem and transom stern) in Yousef Al-Majid's dhowyard at the Amiriyya, in Doha, Qatar (1992)
- 2 Examining rock carvings at Jabal al-Jussasiyya, northern Qatar: D. A. Agius with Jassem Al Rais, Assistant Head of the Department of Museum and Antiquities (Doha) and Khamis Supervisor of Antiquities (Khor) (1992)
- 3 Skeleton of a shā'ī in Ibrahim Bu Haroon's dhowyard at Umm Al Quwain (United Arab Emirates) (1996)
- 4 Two dhowworkers measuring the karwa (a semi-oval design at the bottom of the stern to fit a shaft and propeller) at Seif Mohammed Al Qaizi dhowyard in Dubai (United Arab Emirates) (1996)
- 5 The fishing shā'ī: background Portuguese fort at Mina Khasab, Musandam Peninsula, Oman (1996)
- 6 A wrecked mehmel (a general term for a coastal fishing or ocean-going dhow) at Harat Al Sheikh near Sohar, Oman (1996)
- 7 A ghanja, a Suri deep-sea dhow distinguished by its carved stempost and the square-shaped-stern with a high poop (1996)
- 8 D. A. Agius interviewing Abu Khamis at Al Butteen dhowyard in Abu Dhabi (United Arab Emirates) (1977)
- 9 Discovery of an Islamic tombstone at Qalhat, SE Oman (1977)
- 10 A palm-tree fibre beach canoe, shā'īsha, operated by oars, near Sohar, Oman (1997)
- 11 D. A. Agius recording a group of fishermen in Fins, SE Oman (1998)
- 12 A reproduction of a trapezoid anchor with wooden arms at Qalhat, SE Oman (see Tom Vosmer et al.'s Report) (1998)